The children's own. What is it? The right to be cared for in sickness, to be provided for in health, to be cherished their future life. But the lot of the little one coming to earth for a first and only ing the poles and putting them in proper shape.

Poverty darkens many a door so that even the brightness of childhood cannot penetrate the gloom within, and there sickness reigns and mind and body suffer alike from privations and lack of care.

It is in cases like this that THE EVENING World desires to be a missionary and that it has in seasons past accomplished some measure of good. Again this year it is preparing for the work, and its Sick Baby Fund and Free Doctors' Corps will soon be once more in full operation. All who are kindly disposed towards this charity are invited to aid it in what way

RECKLESS BLASTING MUST STOP. The law detailing the conditions under which blasting operations may be carried on in this city is sufficiently explicit. There is no excuse for the contractor on whose job a violation of its provisions takes place. The frequency of "unexpected" explosions and of careless blastings, like those which yesterday put lives and property in danger in the vicinity of Mount Morris Park and on the Southern Boulevard, indicates, however, that an investigation into the manner in which the law is lived up to would be a very proper thing.

No contractor who allows himself or his workmen to deviate in the least from the methods provided for securing safe blast-

The Normannia's escape from the peril which threatened it and its burden of 1.300 souls on Tuesday last makes the theme of a thrilling story and the cause for infinite thanksgiving.

One of the prettiest and most gratifying excursions of yesterday was that of the 250 Brooklyn working girls who journeyed to Locust Valley to take possession of the An Interesting Struggle Between Unnew Summer home provided for them through Mr. BENJAMIN W. The head of its black enemy was sometimes almost pulled under water, but the strength of the fish would not permit an entire submersion. It moved its fins as it exhausted, and often rested. It is said a peculiarity of pearls is that unlike other precious gems they are liable to decay. Occasionally a valuable pearl changes color, seems to be attacked with a deadly disease and crumbles into dust. Such is reputed to have been the fate of the most magnificent specimen ever known. It was found by an ignorant fisherman, who disposed of it for an insignificant sum. Passing through successive hands, it finally be-came the property of a Russian merchant and found a possessor who knew its immense value and prized it accordingly. He kept it carefully in a secluded room of his magnifi ent mansion, apart from all other of his treasures. It was the admiration and wonder of favored friends who were permitted to look at it. The merchant finally became involved in a political conspiracy and fled to Paris, taking his one great treasure with him. He kept it hidden for a time, but at last consented to show it to some distinguished lovers of precious stones. one of them The Evening World proposes to present a piano.

Not an ordinary, chesp affair, but a first-class, sweet-toned and elegant instrument. The name of the Sunday-school deacher to whom the piano shall be given shall be left to the children and those who have been children of the Sunday-schools and they shall decide by casting their ballots in an Evening World popular election.

The piano is Estey's best make, which is sufficient guarantee that it will be first class in style, tone and finish.

The winner may choose the wood she prefers to have it in. She may select cherry, rosewood, mahogany, ebony, black-wainut or any other wood, and be assured that she will be the possessor of the finest plano she ever saw. ever *aw.

There will be no sect, no creed considered in this contest. It is open to all female Sunday school eachers without regard to creed
